In the domain of politics the presence of kinship was (and is) seen as something to be exorcised in order to establish rational administrative systems, to mobilise colonial populations and even to destroy terrorist infrastructures. It is behind distinctions between modern and traditional, between Western and “Other” societies. Their aim therefore is to revisit this conceptual division between

Kinship politics and western values are merely idioms used in the dynamics of political and social action; that is, a form of rhetoric. To suggest this, however, is not to deny that Filipinos also utilize such norms as a reflection of sincerely held beliefs. In short, kinship politics and western values are not fixed, immutable laws. Both kin-
